BUTLER'S COLLEGE OF BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION
MASTER OF BUSINESS CEO SPEAKER SERIES
W. SCOTT WEBBER, VOLATUS TECHNOLOGY GROUP

INDIANAPOLIS – Scott Webber, chairman and CEO of Volatus Technology Group, will speak at the second session of Butler University's College of Business Administration MBA CEO Speaker Series on Wednesday, March 21 at 6 p.m. in the Atherton Union Reilly Room, 704 W. Hampton Dr.

A 24-year veteran of the technology industry, Webber founded Volatus Technology Group, a collaborative community of companies, in March 2000 to provide entrepreneurs with helpful executive contacts to increase their chances for success.

Previously, Webber has held CEO and other positions with Corepoint Technologies, Software Artistry, Inc. and Pansophic Systems, Inc., helping each company to grow.

Webber founded and chaired the Central Indiana Technology Partnership and currently serves on the boards of Installshield, Performance Assessment Network, the Indianapolis Regional Economic Development Partnership and the Central Indiana Corporate Partnership. He earned a bachelor's degree from Carleton University in Ottawa, Canada and a master of management degree from Northwestern University.

Sponsored by Key Bank, the event is free and open to the public. The series' final CEO speaker will be Jeff Smulyan of Emmis Communications Corporation.
